

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Provided are a method of creating multimedia content using a Synchronized Multimedia Integration Language (SMIL) and multimedia content created by the method. The multimedia content includes a first element and a second element. The first element has an attribute that initializes variables. The second element has an attribute that implements a memory function by expressing operations on the variables.